If you're using a Standard PDF export \(Full PDF Download\) of your knowledge base, you can add a download link for the PDF to your table of contents.

There are two different ways you can add a link to the full PDF download to the bottom of your table of contents; one is through the Standard PDF configuration; the other is through Settings > Basic. Below, we describe how to add it through the Standard PDF configuration; see Website Settings for adding it from Settings > Basic.

1. Go to Knowledge Base > Exports.
2. In the Standard PDF tab, check the box next to "Add a full PDF download link to the knowledge base table of contents." In the Table of contents section, check the box next to "Add a full PDF download link to the knowledge base table of contents".

3. Save and regenerate the PDF. You should now see the PDF link at the bottom of your TOC.

4. By default, the link that is added is "Full PDF Download". If you'd like to change that wording, use the Table of Contents section of the Customize Text tool to update it!

See Website Settings for more information on other settings available in Settings > Basic.

This PDF will not automatically update as you update content. Be sure to regenerate the PDF periodically!
