Happy Hall-owleen bug fixes

Our dev-owlopers (too much?) have been working on some tricky new features, but we wanted to be sure you had a few bugfix treats to tide you over, too.

This week, we've released fixes for these issues:

- URL redirect article: The Redirect to File button was inserting PDF, Word, and Excel files into the body of the article instead of the URL field. It now properly inserts the file URL into the URL field, regardless of the file type.
- On Pages, authors with Custom roles that did not include the delete Categories permission were still able to delete subcategories displayed in the righthand pane using the trashcan icon. We've removed this icon so its consistent with the permissions they have elsewhere.
- In the Snippet Library, if you searched for text, the delete option in the snippet thumbnails disappeared. We've fixed this so that search doesn't remove that option.
- In our API, date comparisons used in $and statements weren't working properly. They should be now.
- In the Popular Articles Report, individual article's views were occasionally resetting themselves. We have fixed this so they should only be reset when you initiate a reset. If you reported this issue, please let us know if you notice any further issues!
