Nat'l ⬚ Video Game Day bug fixes

Last Modified on 12/28/2022 12:24 pm EST

I know several owls who would very happily celebrate today, since it's National Video Game Day. ⬚⬚

While less fun than video games, we did release fixes for these bugs:

- We discovered that if you use Link to article to reference an article, and then you archive or delete that article and add its permalink as an Old Link on an existing article, the Link to article references didn't follow the Old Link redirects. We've fixed this so that Link to article references will follow those Old Link redirects if the article is no longer published.
- In Contextual Help Widget (2.0), if you are authenticating the widget and passing reader group membership over with the authentication, the Contact tab will now prefill the reader's name and email address.
- On the Contact form reporting, once you opened page breakdown details, if you had multiple pages of results, the pagination didn't work. We fixed it so you can properly page through those results now.
- In Style > Settings, when using Custom Fonts, if you entered a misformed URL and saved, sometimes it would prevent the knowledge base pages from loading properly or prevent some editing windows within the app from loading properly. We've added some sanitation to the Custom Font URL field here so that if we can't process the URL, we load a back-up font and all pages still work properly.