

☒ Nat'l Horse Day bugfixes

Last Modified on 12/13/2024 11:26 am EST

☒ Horses! Today we celebrate these magnificent companions who've stood faithfully by humanity's side throughout history. From carrying travelers across continents to working to save Spain from forest fires, these intelligent, powerful creatures continue to amaze and inspire us.

Today, we're also telling you about some bugfixes we've let out of the gates recently:

1. Our default theme now has a keyboard focus indicator. Keyboard focus indicators should be visible for all interactive content, and now they are for our default theme. This helps us move forward in Accessibility, which is something we're consistently striving to improve upon.
2. We've fixed an issue that was preventing readers who log in to their knowledge bases via IP address from accessing secure file library links. No bueno! Thankfully, you can now access these files regardless of your login method.
3. Reader and article CSV exports are working again! A reorganization task we performed broke this feature temporarily. We have since corrected this, so you should not have any issue with CSV exports now.
4. You may have noticed that our navigation menu has a fresh new look! After a successful early release of the new navigation menu last month, we've now rolled out these design improvements to all accounts. If you have any feedback on the changes, we'd love to hear it!